

Market risk, water management and the multiplier effects of irrigation agriculture with reference to the Northern Cape

A spatial equilibrium model was used to determine the impact of market risks on the optimal allocation of water resources and to determine the multiplier effects of irrigation agriculture in the Northern Cape (SAM and CGE model)