

Price strategy for the production of raw materials for a South African Ethanol production industry.

The main objective was to establish a pricing strategy for raw materials that will result in a sustainable supply of raw materials for the establishment of an ethanol processing plant

It also included a value chain analysis of ethanol production from sugar cane in several countries.